0 of 0 review helpful Broadway to Hollywood cold cuts on wry By C Honore Edward Eliscu had a remarkable career first as a lyricist alongside such greats as Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II on Tin Pan Alley then in Hollywood as a successful screenwriter. Amidst the craziness of show business Eliscu had a level head and maintained a solid sense of humor. As a Hollywood and Broadway buff I found this re-memoir of Edward Eliscu has lived three celebrated lives for much of this century on Broadway in Hollywood and in Connecticut. Known among his peers as the exemplary professional lyricist and to many others as a trenchant and witty playwright, screenwriter, performer, director, essayist, critic, poet and political polemicist, Eliscu is best known to the general public as the writer of such memorable songs as Without a Song, More Than You Know, Great Day. A useful addition to the always excellent and informative Scarecrow Filmmakers series which has done much to preserve the memories of the veterans of the cinematic community. Historical Journal Of Film Radio Television.
